SAID IN CYPRESS

By Newsy

Elmer McWilliams was feeling pretty blue and low-down. He had lost his prized ruby ring. Having a high monetary value as well as being a sentimental keepsake, he was wishing someone would find it around Cypress and bring it to him at the Sorghum mill.

Then wife Mildred got busy and together they retraced Elmer's steps. They went out to the big wide open spaces of the 14-acre ranch.

After tramping around and realizing just how hopeless their predicament was, Mildred glanced down. There, half buried in the earth where it had been trod upon, was a faint gleam of the golden band, and Elmer's ring was back.

Our apologies for fouling up delivery of the paper last Friday. It never dawned on us that the post office would be closed, and there the papers lay until Saturday while the postal employees enjoyed a well-earned holiday. If we'd been any kind of a reporter at all, we would have warned you about it the week before. Let's see. What's the next rest day coming up?

Special Meet For Council

Friday, March 7, at 8 o'clock is the evening chosen by H. J. G. Kreissler, president of the Cypress Coordinating council, for a special business meeting.

All presidents of organizations represented on the council and their representatives are being asked to attend.

The meeting will be held at the A. E. Arnold home, 5541 Bishop street.

Death Takes A. C. Wallace

Death came at his home in Anaheim Monday morning to Andrew C. Wallace. Although a native of Missouri, he had lived in Orange county for over thirty years. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace and their family of four sons lived on Moody back of what is now the Cypress Hay market and farmed that land at one time.

Beside his wife Ollie, his four sons who survive him are Angus E. Davis of Wyoming, Frank L. Davis of Anaheim, George C. Davis of Los Alamitos and Elmer R. Davis U. S. Navy.

AUTHOR, FORMER CYPRESSAN DIES

Leon Fred Sperry, whose latest novel was "Bag and baggage", died Friday at his home in Long Beach, 2132 Lomina ave. He is survived by his widow, Linnie.

Although born in Montana, he came to California and lived for a time in Cypress at 5252 Bishop st. His book had considerable interest here because it took for its locale this vicinity.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Long Beach with private interment.

Change Name VFW Post

Oficial permission has been received by Cypress VFW Post No. 9847 from national headquarters through department channels to change its name. It will henceforth be known as the "C. R. Rogers Memorial VFW Post No. 9847" to honor the late adjutant who served his unit loyally and faithfully.

Date of dedication is pending decision of the members at their next meeting, according to Ray E. Lucas, present adjutant.

Mrs. Arden Hambly, 5312 Bishop st., has been recuperating in Artesia hospital from major surgery undergone last Friday. She is expected home today.

Tickets To Support Crippled Kids On Sale By Kiwanians

Cypress Kiwanis club members are selling tickets to the baseball game in Los Angeles March 16 which is sponsored in order to provide money for the Hollywood club's program of aiding in rehabilition of crippled children.

The game features two top-notch ball clubs, the major league All-stars and the Hollywood Stars. Thousands have been turned away at previous games.

A share of the money sold by local club members will go into their own treasury.

At the meeting Monday night in Loyd's drive-in, Dr. Ray Temple was the speaker for the evening, giving an account of a ride he took from Iowa City, Iowa, to San Francisco in 1912 in a freight car with two horses.

He was introduced by program chairman Haskell Kelley. Dick Hathcock presided at the meeting and Miss Alene Rogers accompanied the group singing at the piano.

RED CROSS GETS DRIVE UNDERWAY

Getting a good start for the Red Cross drive which takes place in March, volunteers in Cypress are being lined up under the leadership of Mrs. T. W. Clark, who is rural and school representative for the Anaheim division. Bert Arnold, of Anaheim, is fund chairman.

Mrs. Clark has announced that the Rev. W. D. Howard will canvass the dairies house-to-house and will be assisted in the business section by Haskell Kelley.

Campaign material has been left at the schoolhouse. Anyone desiring to solicit wherever they are needed may call Miss Elizabeth Dickerson at the school or Mrs. Clark at Anaheim 60060.

ART ATWELL WILL SPEAK

To kick-off a Sunday school rally at the Cypress Church of the Nazarene, Art Atwell will appear during the service at 9:45 a.m. He was recently converted and is now in full time religious work.

Atwell was formerly trumpeter with Spade Cooley's orchestra. The rally will continue through to Easter Sunday.

Chamber Of Commerce Is Opposed To Proposal By League Of Cities

Cypress chamber went on record as opposing the proposed legislation supported by incorporated cities which would allow unincorporated county areas to either be annexed by cities, or receive a tax raise for the purpose of supporting their own fire protection groups, and other services, which cities now feel they are paying for.

A report of the 1952 membership drive of the Cypress Chamber of commerce at the meeting last week revealed 59 new members with only a portion of the town covered.

Plans are now underway for the second step in the campaign, the soliciting of the residential areas.

At the suggestion of the Artesia Chamber of commerce, two representatives were chosen to attend the meetings of the chambers of this area to investigate possibilities of widening Coyote creek and the San Gabriel river so that a repetition of the recent floods might be avoided. Pat Arnold and Pete Bouma agreed to go to the meetings in behalf of Cypress, since they had already attended the first gathering of the group two weeks ago.

Lester Boyle, whose talk on sewers for Cypress was cancelled, will be contacted for another date early in March.

Another action taken at the meeting was agreement to discontinue the system of collecting Christmas candy money through a "kitty" collection each meeting. A committee will be appointed this week to figure out other ways to accumulate a fund for the end of the year.

DEADLINE APRIL 10 TO VOTE

Voters who wish to take part in the primaries must be sure they are properly registered, warns Mrs. Frank Williams, 9060 Walker st.

Mrs. Williams reminds residents that they must live in the state one year; ninety days in the county and 54 days in the pricinct. If you are new in the community or moved from one precinct to another in Cypress, this applies to you. It is already too late to register for the local school election coming up, the registrar said.

Mrs. Williams suggests that if you have any question as to your own status you may come to her home or phone her at Anaheim 60458.

Visitor Glad For Honest Man!

It happened right here in Cypress! J. O. Johnson of Olivet, South Dakota, lost his wallet on the corner of Lincoln and Walker Monday afternoon. It had a large sum of money, and valuable papers. Inside of five minutes after he lost it, Johnson started searching for it, and finally gave it up as gone.

But the story has a happy ending, because Sam Guitierrez, who is moving here from Artesia to a residence on Watson st., found the valued possession. Not being familiar around town, and especially with anyone from South Dakota, he turned the wallet into the Anaheim police. Johnson was reunited with his $185 and papers, and all is well that ends s'well.

The South Dakotan is visiting his son, K. E. "Johnny" Johnson, 5701 Saint Ann ave.

Robert Van Dyke Wins High Honor

Fellow students of Robert Van Dyke, 17-year old senior at Anaheim Union high school, selected him for this year's special award in Future Farmers of America.

Van Dyke was awarded the FFA plaque for having the best all around project program in the four years he has been a future farmer in the high school. Presentation was made by Charles Barrows at the annual banquet held Thursday night in the school cafeteria.

This honor followed on the heels, as it were, of his triumphant success at the Riverside County fair at Indio when he all but walked away with top honors. Of the six animals he entered in the show, all were winners.

Hold Funeral For Mrs. Baker

Mrs. Lola Geneva Baker, a resident of Cypress for nine years, died about midnight Monday of a heart attack en route to a hospital. Cypress volunteer firemen were called upon to bring the resuscitator.

Besides her son Elmer H., with whom she made her home in Cypress, she leaves another son, Robert Lee Baker of Paramount. A native of Indiana, she was a member of the Pythian Sisters there.

Funeral services were held Thursday at ten o'clock at the Nazarene church in Cypress with the Rev. William D. Howard conducting last rites. Interment was in Loma Vista Memorial park. Hilgenfeld mortuary in Anaheim was in charge of arrangements.

LOCAL WOMAN'S MOTHER BURIED

Funeral services were held Monday in Anaheim for the mother of Mrs. W. S. D. Moore, 9301 Miller road. Mrs. Rose La Duke was found dead in her home at 615 Helena st. in Anaheim when anxious neighbors failed to get a response and called police. It was believed she died February 19 from a heart attack.

Her husband preceded her in death a short time before, having died during the latter part of December in Oregon, it was learned.

The Rev. J. M. Davis, Assembly of God pastor, conducted the last rites in Anaheim cemetery.

BEST OF THE EXCHANGES

The meanest man in town had just died. All of his life he had been a pinch-penny, a kill-joy with never a smile for anyone. Returning from the funeral the pall bearers were gathered in the barber shop.

One of them allowed as how "It just ain't right not to have at least something good to say about the deceased."

After a considerable period of silence the barber spoke up, "Well, I could say this . . . he was not a hard man to shave."

DOUBLE STANDARD

Can you imagine what would happen in the average American home if the man of the house laid down the law to the rest of the family like this: "All of you must stop using the car, cut out movies, do without new clothes, forget about a new refrigerator or television set, buy nothing but essential foods, and scrimp on everything else so that I WILL HAVE PLENTY OF MONEY TO SPEND ON MYSELF"?

Few men would be brave enough—or foolish enough—to try that routine. Yet, the funny thing is that the American family as a whole, is swallowing that very same line from the Great White Father in Washington—the government.

We are urged as individuals and business concerns to keep our expenses down, avoid waste, be efficient and pay more and more taxes. Why? So that the government can keep its expenses up, waste more, be grossly inefficient, and have more and more money to play with.

It was never the peoples' intent that they should have to deprive themselves in order to maintain the Administration in a way of living to which it should never have become accustomed. There is no argument against thrift, economy and efficiency among the citizens—in fact, it is both desirable and essential. But is is no less desirable and essential that these practises be followed in government.

In other words, the Administration is not something privileged and apart from the people. It does not live unto itself. If sacrifices are necessary, as they are in certain respects, let them be made all UP the line. And Washington should set the pace, not drag its feet.

I RISE TO REMARK

By JOHN PHILLIPS

How would you like a legislative mosaic for this week's letter? I used to know a family, when I was a boy, where the wife didn't like the word "hash;" she always called it "mosaic".

Committee Work

We started early, and are moving right along. Last year, Chairman Cannon called the organization meeting in February; this year we started hearing on January 10. The Independent Offices subcommittee, on which I am the ranking Republican member, has finished hearing three dozen agencies of government. We should be on the Floor the middle of March.

President's Budget

That comes to our subcommittee. It has six parts, The Executive Office of the President; the White House Office; Care of the Executive Mansion and Grounds; the Emergency Fund; the Council of Economic Advisors, and the Bureau of the Budget. All other requests, from the agencies coming to our subcommittee, were cut by the President before they reached us, but not these six. I suggested, on the Floor, that the President's recommendations for economy, could begin in the White House. This year the total is $7,011,215 and the President asks $11,623,843 for next year. I haven't space to analyze the expenditures from the "Emergency Fund." Webster would have to write a new definition for "emergency".

UMT

The bill will be reported out before you read this, together with the committee's comments. I have been for such training, ever since W.W.I. There are certain features of the bill which are controversial, Will it be controlled by the military or by civilians? The latter is bred deeply into this republic. Will it have an expiration date? It must have. What will it do to the National Guard? These are only three. We will soon know what the committee recommends.

Veterans Houses

The VA reported to my subcommittee that it had approved 2.6 million loans, totalling $16.4 billion, and of this total, it had paid claims on only 12,586 defaulted loans, worth about $13 million. This is a tenth of one per cent. That is a good record, both for the VA and for the veterans. Some of that money, is recoverable.

St. Lawrence Seaway

Who started this letter writing against the St. Lawrence Seaway? He (or she) had better keep out of the way of the Congressional office secretaries for a while! We've had this up for 9 years, during the administrations of both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman, neither of them noted economizers, and it didn't get going, so why do you think it has any chance in a session when even Senator Connolly is against foreign money spending, and the Democrats are trying to cut the budget requests? We're glad to hear from you, on any subject, but I think of subpects more interesting and important to the 22nd District, and to California. Put in a postscript with the local news, and tell us how much the rain brought up the wells, and all will be forgiven!

Coachella

Earl Redwine, Hugh Gallaher and Larry Clause came down for Coachella's annual appearance before the Interior subcommittee. The committee listened with apparent sympathy. When a farm boy tells his girl he loves her, he doesn't hay "forever;" he used to say, "until the farmers are satisfied." At least, that's what they say about us. In Coachella, they probably say, "Until the distribution system is finished and we get the Bureau of Reclamation out of the Valley."

Palo Verde

The water bill has been introduced and you'll have copies in a few days. The committee is ready to hear it. A time will be set later.

Imported Labor

The I. and N. omnibus bill was heard on the 19th. The Senate sent over a separate bill, containing some undesirable provisions. I prophesy this will rest quietly in the House Judiciary committee, which will put out its own bill.

Politics

Warming up. The Republican convention starts July 7th, in Chicago; the Democratic convention starts July 21st. California has 70 votes in the Republican convention; how many in the Democratic? That means an influence which should be used for the benefit of the nation first, and then of the west.

That ends my space and I haven't touched 10% of the subjects of immediate interest in this office.

COUNTY COMMENT

By GEORGE E. HART

Two seats on the county board of supervisors will be open in this year's election. But not very far open.

Supervisor C. M. Featherly in the First district, comprising the city of Santa Ana, and Supervisor Ralph J. McFadden in the Third district, covering northern Orange county, are completing their first terms on the board and are reported ready to campaign for second terms.

Just who will oppose their re-election, if anyone does, has not yet been made apparent. It is more than likely that some other hats will be in the ring. The records of the two supervisors have nothing to do with that. It is simply that, as far as memory reaches, there always has been competition for the office of supervisor in these two districts.

Chairman Willis Warner of Huntington Beach had no opponent in the Second district last time. And Supervisor Willard Smith of Orange has at times had clear sailing in the Fourth district. But it seems that the First, Third and Fifth districts always come up with a race. Maybe it's the odd numbers.

Warner, Smith and Heinz Kaiser, the new Fifth district supervisor from Costa Mesa, were re-elected and elected two years ago, so do not figure in this year's campaigns.

It is nothing uncommon to see eight or nine candidates for supervisor in Santa Ana. Featherly knocked off a field of seven opponents four years ago. There is seldom less than four or five after the post.

So far this year, rumor names only one opponent for Featherly. That one, Rhodes Finley, was one of the strongest four years ago, running a fairly close third among eight in the primary.

What he might do against Featherly in a small field of candidates is worth speculation. Finley did not make the November runoff, so it was not shown how many of other candidates' votes he might have picked up. As between Featherly and Del Liggett, high man at the primary, Featherly got most of the other candidates' following and overcame Liggett's primary lead to win the election.

The Finley name has a certain amount of political magic in Santa Ana, so any Finley candidate must be reckoned with. Rhodes Finley's father, Col. S. H. Finley, and his uncle, Steele Finley, both represent the First district on the board of supervisors. So there is an element of voting habit to be considered. It is well known that voters place a lot of blind faith in a familiar name.

What the candidate filing period, starting March 5, will bring forth to confront Supervisor Ralph McFadden in the Third district is anybody's guess. It may be that, remembering McFadden's resounding victory over the incumbent, James Baker, four years ago, everybody will dodge a campaign bout with the big Placentia ranchman, who roared through the election with a majority of 3000 to 4000, while Featherly was scratching through with less than 300 lead.

Incidently, Supervisor Ralph didn't quiet down after the election. He is a positive personality and, frankly, he raised quite a racket on the board, being very blunt about things he felt were wrong. Whatever his district may think about him after four years, his constituents have never been left in doubt as to where he stood on any issue.

The McFadden name has some political magic of its own in the north part of the county. It is a pioneer name, for one thing. For another, Ralph McFadden has been giving public service, offcially or otherwise, for most of this century.

Not until he was elected supervisor did he ever get paid for it.

Visiting Nurses Have Busy Year

The staff of eight nurses of the Visiting Nurse Association made a total of 10,351 visits to patients in Orange County in 1951, stated George Kellogg, president of the association in his report at the annual meting held this week in the Y.W.C.A. building in Santa Ana. The board of directors, officers of the V.N.A., the staff, representatives of organizations and friends of the association were present.

In his report, Kellogg stressed the fact that the work involves very little overhead expense, 94% of the budget going for staff salaries. The program is financed by collection of fees from patients contracts with the board of supervisors, American Cancer Society and twelve community chests.

The case load of the nurses included all types of care which can be given at home on an hourly basis, such as communicable disease victims, infants, mothers, the aged, the tubercular and those who need health supervission.

Dr. John Beeston, assistant professor in the Schol of Public Health at U.C.L.A. was guest speaker at the dinner meeting.

Sargum Reports

(Editor's Note: Old-time readers will recognize the fine hand of former editor W. C. Miller in the following, who is "Sargum". "Susan" is Mrs. Miller, his wife.)

Hello Folks: Once upon a time Old Sargum felt honor bound to meet the deadline each week with the doings of the Sprouts for the Cypress Enterprise but that was in 1945 and before. In fact, the Sprouts have been living such quiet lives the last few years there was little to interest the readers of a paper. But recently the Sprouts have been entertaining and perhaps you would like to hear about it.

First there was Uncle Andy and Aunt Minnie from the far away cold of Montana. They came out to thaw out a bit. Susan baked biscuits, fried chicken, dug out many things from the deep freeze, such as beans, corn, fish etc. and for a week we feasted and then they found an apartment in Long Beach.

Next came Laura and Shorty. They have a beautiful little home on the banks of the Umpqua in southern Oregon. They are experts on wood craft and outdoor lore. They found the mad rush of southern California very interesting but confusing. We tried to show them all the points of interest in three days. Then they left for southern Arizona where they joined a party interested in archaeology. For ten days they dug about in the desert and filled their pick-up with all sorts of relics of past ages.

Shorty and Laura came back to show their wares to the Sprouts. Uncle Andy and Aunt Minnie came out, Bruce and Irene came up from Escondido and Sister Maude and Walt arrived down from Santa Cruz and the Sprouts had a house full. Old Sargum dug out the family jewels and traded them for T-bone steaks and there was a regular old time steak bake at Orange County park. Every one loved the steaks but the Sprouts did like their jewels. For three days we cooked and ate and had a heck of a time and then they all departed and the Sprouts went back to normal but not for long.

Pearl and Mae came down from Medford to pay a long promised visit. Pearl has a fleet of trucks, a fleet of cars, a grain and feed business and a lumber business and evidently he goes places fast. They wanted to see Tijuana and buy a few things. So eight o'clock the morning after their arrival they, accompanied by the Sprouts, were on the way to points south. Pearl is used to driving those narrow roads in Oregon and when he found himself on the broad highways of southern California he thought he had a paved world all his own. Anyway, the Sprouts were catching their breath in Tijuana long before noon.

Mae and Susan were in heaven in those shops below the border. They purchased hats, handbags, coats, and many things. Of course, Old Sargum and Pearl began to get hungry and we searched and searched for a likely place for good food. We finally selected a place. It was the wrong one. We had garlic mixed with corn meal and some kind of meat mixed with chili but we ate it and did not like it.

After lunch there was more shopping. Everyone was getting tired about two o'clock. The last thing purchased was a china bull. We skipped back to San Diego and took in the zoo. Then dropped in on Bruce and Irene in Escondido. Not having done enough for one day we skipped back to Anaheim for an eight o'clock Chinese dinner.

Next day we took in Long Beach, Whittier, Turn Bull Canyon, La Habra Heights and Knott's Berry place. We ate chicken, introduced Mae and Pearl to the guy in jail and did all the other features of Ghost Town. Next morning Pearl and Mae left for home. Susan and Sargum have been attempting to get back to normal ever since. Just wanted you to know that the Old Sprouts can take it for a time but Gosh not like we used to.

Yours,
Susan and Sargum

Budget Cuts Can Mean Savings To All Of Us

Every billion dollars which congress cuts off the proposed $85.4 billion federal budget for 1952-53 means about $30 which a California family of four can keep for its own family purpose—will not have to pay in taxes, California Taxpayers' association estimated today. The federal budget proposes expenditures which are $14.5 billion greater than anticipated revenues from present federal tax sources.

For the 246,470 people of Orange county (January 1, 1952,) every billion dollars cut out of the proposed federal budget means about $1,848,525 which can be spent or invested in the county.

If the federal budget were held to the $71 billion of anticipated revenues—if it could be reduced by $14.5 billion — it would mean a tax savings of at least $26,865,230 to the people of the county—about $435 per family of four.

To the people of California, every billion which is cut out of the proposed federal budget means a tax savings of about $83,000,000.

A cut back to expected revenues would mean about $1.2 billion left in California for expansion of industry and a better standard of living for the people of the state.

"Tightening up federal spending is not going to be easy—but it is vitally necessary," the Taxpayers' association said.

"If we do not want to pay higher taxes, the people are going to have to demand that federal spending be curtailed.

"California's stake in a federal budget held to $71 billion—about $435 per family of four—is well worth while going after."

Glen McCloud Says

We who live in Southern California indeed live in a Heaven-blessed land. True, we have an infrequent earthquake and flood, but all things considered, the region and especially Orange county, is a "garden spot" in which to dwell.

Because of the rapid community growth and expansion of the region, we must supply adequate transportation facilities to care for our needs and those of the many guests who come to our State each year. The answer of course, is more and better roads. With wide, divided highways, the county's deversified goods, ranging from citrus and farm produce to a multitude of manufactured products can be quickly sped to their markets.

With the proper roads, the terrific loss of life and destruction of property now going on in Southern California can be lowered. It behooves each and every one of us to work for the elimination of conditions on highways and roads of our county which are hazardous to life and limb. I believe a modern highway program to be a responsibility of the State Legislature.

F. Ferreira Goes In Army

Last Thursday, several boys from Anaheim, as well as Don McLaughlin and Frankie Ferreira, took their physicals for entrance into the army. Don came home that evening, having been deferred, and Frankie called his folks as soon as he could from Fort Ord.

On Sunday, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferreira and Narcie, Miss Delores Cardin, his grandmother, Mrs. Bella Sores, Mrs. Jack Mello, aunt, and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sores, uncle, and family, all visited him. They prepared a picnic with plenty of fried chicken and good things to eat.

The group expects to visit next Sunday, too, if the boys have not been transferred out of the state, which it was rumored would be the case. Young Ferreira has not been out of California.

Back at work again following recent surgery is Homer Lees, of 5641 Danny ave.

Assessors Due Soon

Annual assessment of Orange county property, for the county tax rolls, will commence next Monday, March 3.

County Assessor Hugh J. Plumb will send a squadron of field deputies into all sections of the county, starting on that date, and the assessment period continues to the end of June.

On July 1, the assessor turned the completed tax rolls over to the county board of supervisors, which sits as a board of equalization during the ensuing two weeks, to hear requests for adjustments.

Assessed valuation of property subject to local tax rates for the present fiscal year was $462,789,740, with another $37,718,290 was tax exempt. The taxable property included $28,185,500 of public utility property assessed by the state board of equalization.
